

Looking for a different perspective on parenting for modern parents?

Natasha provides parents a systematic way to cut through the overwhelming noise around parenting. They don't teach you this in parenting class!

"Thank you very much for posting such vital information. I find your posts cover aspects that best fit parents of "today's world," who are being forced to face a variety of spectrums within today's much advance and amazing children we have been gifted with." Sandra E.

"Natasha brings a fresh, new perspective to being a parent, and assures me that I am not alone on this journey. Thank you!!!" Dionne L.

"You pack a lot into these pages. Helpful!" AB

Parents are bombarded on all fronts in this rapid fire world. Cultural shifts, the explosion of information about child development, impassioned ideas about health, and ever-changing technology are just a few things that cause parents to feel alone. Rather than drown in confusion or overwhelm, Natasha provides a system for parents to strengthen their inner parenting core so they can thrive as a parent.

In her insightful book, and multi-faceted blogs, she draws on her personal experience in parenting as well as her 20+ years looking in to the hearts and souls of parents and children as a nurse in the world of pediatrics, maternal child health, and public health.

Natasha's mission at OMGPARENTING, is for parents to:

- Be less stressed, frustrated and lost.
- Liberate from some of the things that keep them from enjoying their child.
- Become empowered to grow their own life.
- Trust in their intuition.
- Laugh more often.
- Acquire skills and practices that keep the dance of parenting flowing

NATASHA SOLOVIEFF, BSN, M.Ed.

763.267.2429

209 Turnpike Rd, Mpls, MN 55416

www.OMGparenting.com
ns@OMGparenting.com